#	Title
1	Deadwood
But steer clear of Deadwood: The Movie (2019); it is extremely bad.
2	The Sopranos
I do not like the Godfather films.
3	Better Call Saul
Better than Breaking Bad , although I did not enjoy Chuck's electromagnetic hypersensitivity subplot.
4	Breaking Bad
El Camino is all right but inessential.
5	Friends
Simply an excellent sitcom.
6	Parks and Recreation
The recent "A Parks and Recreation Special" is boring.
7	Star Trek: The Next Generation
"Are we sure this is as good as we remember?" --Honest Trailers
8	Dragon Ball Z
Particularly the first four seasons.
9	Family Guy
Obviously, not all 300+ episodes are equally entertaining, but it has some excellent moments. For instance when Peter buys a tank from a salesman (S5), and when he picks letters for Wheel of Fortune (S4).
10	The Boys
I've seen season 1 three times now. Is this TV series going to be another Ozark , Cobra Kai or House of Cards , that starts off strong but then becomes yet another soap? We'll see.
